Best known locally for roles on television's "Big Sound," "Beggars and Choosers" and "Stargate SG-1," actor/producer Colin Cunningham has been itching for a return to the stage. Cunningham currently holds recurring roles as Major Paul Davis on "Stargate SG-1," Attorney Sean Ryerson on "Cold Squad," and Vice Cop Brian Curtis on "Da Vinci's Inquest." Recently wrapped film roles include John Foss in the Showtime Production "Stealing Sinatra" and Agent Nardo in Hallmark's "Mr. Saint Nick." The VFS grad and multiple LEO Award nominee, took Vancouver by storm in 1998 with his feature filmmaking debut, "Zacharia Farted," scoring 5 LEO nominations in BC, including Best Picture, and 3 Audience Favorite Awards at festivals worldwide. Cunningham wrote, produced and starred in the film along with Madison Graie, who also served as co producer. 'Zacharia' was the first feature produced by Windowshot Productions, Inc, an independent production company founded by Cunningham and Graie. Ms. Graie, holds an MFA from the University of Victoria, is an accomplished actor/producer with countless television; film and theater credits and presently has a film of her own in post-production. Recent collaborations by this dynamic production team include the two latest music videos for Canadian artist Sean Hogan, both currently airing on CMT. Cunningham is working on his second feature script for Windowshot, slated to begin production early next year. Noah Beggs is a versatile television, film and theater actor.
